

Title: Why Should You Incorporate Credits In Your Photo

Meta Title: Learn what a photo credit tool is and discover why it is essentially important to incorporate photo credits to your image / photo.

Meta Description: There is a “credits tool” editor which enables users to quickly caption an image with proper credits allocation that any users can simply use and be done in matter of seconds! In this post we be providing you the essential reasoning as per to why it’s important to associate photo credits in a photo.

Reference Article: <https://www.pixsy.com/academy/photo-credits-important/>

Why Should You Incorporate Credits In Your Photos?

If you had someone steal your work and didn’t even give your credits, it would certainly upset you. Photographers feel the same way! Luckily, you don’t have to go through the extra steps for crediting. There is a “credits tool” editor which enables users to quickly caption an image with proper credits allocation that any users can simply use and be done in matter of seconds! In this post we be providing you the essential reasoning as per to why it’s important to associate photo credits in a photo.

Why Use a Credit Tool?

Well for starters, it’s for free and it would hurt to give someone the credit for a change! Image or photo credit-tool\(s\) are usually designed to allow users to quickly summarize the credits, of the individual who originally took the picture. Users can simply modify text color, location and then download the image along with the credits!

Title: Why Should You Incorporate Credits In Your Photo

Meta Title: Learn what a photo credit tool is and discover why it is essentially important to incorporate photo credits to your image / photo.

Meta Description: There is a “credits tool” editor which enables users to quickly caption an image with proper credits allocation that any users can simply use and be done in matter of seconds! In this post we be providing you the essential reasoning as per to why it’s important to associate photo credits in a photo.

Reference Article: <https://www.pixsy.com/academy/photo-credits-important/>

Important Marketing Tool

Photographers market themselves by credit association to the images that they take. Readers that take interest in photographers based on their work. The only way a reader can learn more about the photographer, is if there is some sort of credit mentioning their name or company.

If you happen to be buying your images from a photographer, you can include your credits so that customers can reach out to you if they are interested to buy similar quality pictures.

Credits Prevents Thieves

A credit association also helps to prevent any unwanted users / thieves who may potentially steal your work and give themselves the credit as if they were the one with the camera!

Credited Image Just Gets Appreciated Better

Photography is a form of art and art is always appreciated. If you do not include credits with a credit-tool, chances are people may not appreciate the work that you publish so much. Let alone it is also a humiliation for the photographer who provided you with the quality images / photos and yet he/ she doesn’t get any credit.

Conclusion

The bottom line is if you don’t want your blog post image to get stolen by anyone and you want to appreciate your photographer, start using the image credit-tool and don’t forget to mention the photographer name alongside with any photographers company or business name.